STUDIES

- Heterogeneity in Autosomal Recessive Ichthyosis: Clinical and Biochemical Differentiation of Lamellar Ichthyosis and Nonbullous Congenital Ichthyosiform Erythroderma 477
Mary L. Williams, MD, Peter M. Elias, MD, San Francisco
• Clinical, histologic, histochemical, and biochemical findings strongly suggest that autosomal recessive primary ichthyosis comprises two distinct diseases. Scale n-alkane levels are elevated in nonbullous congenital ichthyosiform erythroderma.
- Clinical, Histologic, and Cell Kinetic Discriminants Between Lamellar Ichthyosis and Nonbullous Congenital Ichthyosiform Erythroderma 489
Michael Hazell, MB, MRCP, Ronald Marks, MB, FRCP, MRCPATH, Cardiff, Wales
• Patients with erythroderma had less scaling, more obvious reddening, elevated labeling indices, marked epidermal thickening, and easily discernible parakeratosis.
- Genital Herpes: A Pervasive Psychosocial Disorder 494
Elliot D. Luby, MD, Valerie Klinge, PhD, Detroit
• The most distressing consequences of genital herpes appear to be psychosocial.
- Amyloid Elastosis: A New Cutaneous and Systemic Pattern of Amyloidosis 498
R. K. Winkelmann, MD, PhD; Margot S. Peters, MD; Pierre Y. Venencie, MD, Rochester, Minn
• The elastic fibers in the skin, subcutaneous tissue, serosae, and blood vessels were coated with an amyloid-staining material in what appears to represent a unique syndrome of amyloid disease.
- Solar Urticaria: Further Studies on the Role of Inhibition Spectra 503
Masamitsu Ichihashi, MD, PhD; Kazuyoshi Hasei, MD; Kazuhito Hayashibe, MD, Kobe, Japan
• In one case, the urticarial response induced by 475-nm light was inhibited by preirradiation, simultaneous irradiation, and postirradiation with light of wavelengths longer than 650 nm. It may be possible to treat some cases of solar urticaria by preirradiation or postirradiation with longer-wavelength visible light.
- Ibuprofen in the Treatment of UV-B-Induced Inflammation 508
Robert S. Stern, MD, Thomas B. Dodson, Boston
• When administered immediately after exposure to UV-B, ibuprofen provided only minimal relief from the symptoms associated with "sunburn."
- COMMENTARY
- Recurrent Genital Herpes Simplex Infection: A Trivial Disorder 513
Stanley M. Bierman, MD, FACP, Los Angeles
